It was institutional violence directed at poor people too sick to defend themselves. They had a new hardcore NAZI management at Stalag West.

It was consistent with the cheap, nasty posters ordering clients diagnosed with SCHIZOPHRENIA not to see a shrink without booking an appointment first.

They went to the Stalag because it was a drop-in.

Not any more. Now there was engagement! Another Orwellian term. Trixie was in on this one, too. Getting rid of stigma? No! Clients - especially the ones who liked to stand, quietly smoking in the doorway.

They could smoke in the middle of Thing Street, for all she cared. Heil $CAMH!

In reality clients continued to drop in whenever they had to, then the nurses would write them down as having checked in first. They continued to smoke in front of the poster, too.

If CITIZEN HEARSE was a "VISIONARY" - then it deserved to be stated, so was HITLER.
